Good morning Arsh,

I hope you are doing well. Following our conversation, I am proposing a platform that will help you achieve all five of the main organisation tasks identified, with data being hosted in one location and most tasks being automated. Organisers will be able to use the platform to host their tournaments with it managing registrations, payments and contacting their participants. During the event, organisers alongside their volunteers will be able to enter and process scores from the debates (tabulation) to generate the tournament's results. For debaters, the platform will serve as a place to discover new tournaments, register for them and then receive all the information about the tournament they need to compete.

I am writing to you to seek your consent to proceed with this investigation and solution with your advice. Please inform me if I have this consent. Consent is required by the IB for the CompSci IA.

Thank you,

Sam
